

Climate Change Adaptation Training for Local Governments

EPA's Climate Change Adaptation Training for Local Governments helps local public officials, municipal staff, and community leaders better understand the changing climate and the threats posed by climate change to local government services, including:

Water and Wastewater Services

Air Quality Protection

Safeguarding Public Health

Contaminated Site Cleanup

Emergency Response

Transportation

The training highlights actions some communities have already taken to reduce their vulnerabilities to climate change. Examples include Bridgeport, CT; Salt Lake City, UT; Chester, PA; and Boston, MA. This training closes by providing information and resources to help you get started with adaptation planning in your community.

The training is available online at: www.epa.gov/localadaptationtraining
